Julie McNally Cahill and Tim Cahill @jmccah
Executive Producers and Story Editors, “Littlest Pet Shop”

Julie McNally Cahill and Tim Cahill are executive producers and story editors of “Littlest Pet Shop” on the Hub Network. Chris Bartleman, Kristen Newlands and Stephen Davis also serve as executive producers of the program, which is from Hasbro Studios.

With an extensive resume in television animation, Julie McNally Cahill and Tim Cahill have contributed to a variety of popular series over the years and earned two Emmy® Award nominations in the process. The Cahills began their careers at Warner Bros. Animation, where they wrote and produced the award-winning Looney Tunes theatrical short, “Carrotblanca.” They also wrote the direct-to-video features, “Tweety’s High Flying Adventure” and “Tom and Jerry: The Magic Ring.” Additional Warner Bros. credits include the television series “Sylvester and Tweety Mysteries,” “Histeria!,” “Krypto The Superdog,” “Baby Looney Tunes” and “Mucha Lucha.”

In addition, the duo created and co-executive produced the Annie Award-nominated and 2007 Primetime Emmy® Award-winning original Cartoon Network animated series “My Gym Partner’s A Monkey.”

The Cahills reside in Los Angeles.
