Joey Fatone @realjoeyfatone
Host and Executive Producer, “Parents Just Don’t Understand”

Joey Fatone is host and executive producer of the original unscripted series “Parents Just Don’t Understand” on the Hub Network. Christian Sarabia, Rabih Gholam, Bicha Gholam, Nicole M. Reed and Allegra Newman also serve as executive producers of the program, which is from Endemol’s 51 Minds Entertainment.

Known for his multi-platinum selling pop group, ‘N Sync, Fatone has developed a versatile and cross-generational range of talents both on and off the silver screen. His feature film credits include “Inkubus,” "The Cooler," alongside Alec Baldwin and William H. Macy, "Homie Spumoni" with Whoopi Goldberg, and "My Big Fat Greek Wedding," which became the fifth-highest grossing film of 2002 in North America.

Fatone is currently hosting “Rewrapped.” Additional television credits include “The Singing Bee,” “Dancing with the Stars,” “JoJo’s Circus,” “Higglytown Heroes” and “Hannah Montana.” He has also starred in the Broadway musicals, “Little Shop of Horrors” and “RENT.”

Fatone resides in Los Angeles with his wife and two children.
