

Officer Will Smith
Detachment 16

Since he was 10 years old, Officer Will Smith wanted to be a Fish and Wildlife officer. Now, he lives his dream every day while he protects the natural resources he cherishes.

Officer Smith polices some of the most rural areas of Washington, which often renders him alone without cell-phone service. He patrols Moses Lake, a common hideout for fugitives who carry firearms. He feels a duty to protect nature and wildlife despite the fact that he faces danger on a daily basis.

Officer Smith is a lifelong resident of Washington State and enjoys the diversity of outdoor activities, which the Emerald State offers.
