

REBECCA BERNSTEIN

Rebecca Bernstein is a 28-year-old, fourth year veterinary student. Born in Manhattan but raised in South Florida, Rebecca is a true city girl. She completed her undergrad at Northwestern in Evanston, IL as a business major. Six months before graduation, with a job lined up and her future seemingly set, Rebecca took a huge turn in her life when she decided to become a veterinarian instead.

As a die-hard dog lover, it is no surprise Rebecca met her long-time boyfriend Ryan through her 150-lb Great Dane, Humboldt. While attempting to carry his massive bag of food to her apartment, Ryan swooped in like a knight in shining armor to carry it for her; they've been dating ever since.

Interestingly enough, Great Dane's are about the largest animal Rebecca cares to practice on. With a focus on emergency and critical care, she plans to steer clear of large animal veterinarian medicine.

In her spare time, Rebecca enjoys traveling, trying out new restaurants in Philly, and fixing up her and Ryan's home. An avid believer in a healthy balance of work and play, Rebecca enjoys going out with her friends whenever she has the chance.
