

ABOUT THE HOSTS

CHERYL TORRENUEVA

Designer Cheryl Torrenueva is known for her vibrant personality and signature style. She currently holds the throne as a top designer on Restaurant Impossible and is a resident judge on W Network's Game of Homes Vancouver. And if that's not enough, she launched her own lifestyle YouTube channel in partnership with Kin Community called "Simply Cher Cher".

Cheryl graduated with a Bachelor of Interior Design from Ryerson University and could have never predicted what was yet to come. On a whim she entered HGTV's Superstar Challenge, made it to the finals, and the rest is TV history. Cheryl's big break came when she was chosen to be the feisty on-camera Design Manager for HGTV's Colin & Justin's Home Heist. A few years later, she started working in the USA as a design producer for HGTV USA's Secrets From A Stylist, with her work featured on The Rachel Ray Show as well as being the lead designer for Restaurant Impossible: The White House Special.

For the past 13 years, she has continued her TV career as a designer, creating both elegant and innovative spaces for HGTV Canada's hit shows Home To Go, Rooms That Rock, and Food Network's Restaurant Makeover and Restaurant Takeover; art directed for HGTV's Disaster DIY, Design Interns and SLICE's Superstar Hair Challenge. In between shows, she is a regular contributor to The Marilyn Denis Show, Blanco Canada's Kitchen Design Council, Metrie's Design Council, and has designed high profile feature spaces for IDS Toronto, Sony Canada and various Home + Interior Design Shows.

ROGER MORIN

Roger Morin was 9-years-old when his father, a drywall plasterer, would take him to work during the summer holidays. He got his first pair of drywall stilts at age 12 and by 16, Roger and his Dad were plastering homes together. By the age of 18, Roger was in business on his own.

It was quite a circuitous route that led to his evolution as a television personality. In his early 20's, Roger attended college in computer programming and quickly learned it wasn't for him. Then, for a short time during his college years, he became a professional clown where he quickly discovered that he loved being silly and making people laugh. Finally, after graduating from Kinesiology, Roger traveled the world as a fashion model. As glamorous as that sounds, the call of home and the opportunity to work with his hands again proved to be his true passion. In 2011, Roger had his first taste of television when he was hired as the Project Manager on Candice Tells All. Reno, Set, Go! is Roger's first co-hosting role, and the most rewarding experience to date. His chemistry with his co-host Cheryl Torrenueva is much like big brother and sister, and the idea of giving back to deserving people by surprising them with a much-needed renovation is "food for his soul."
