TLC'S LITTLE PEOPLE, BIG WORLD RETURNS FOR ITS 11th SEASON

The new season is filled with triumphs and bittersweet endings, all leading up to the wedding of Zach Roloff and Tori Patton

The new season of LITTLE PEOPLE BIG WORLD returns Tuesday, July 14 at 9/8c. Amy and Matt Roloff face new challenges on their continued journey as they raise four children-comprised of little and average-sized siblings-while dealing with emotional and operational challenges on their farm in Portland, OR.

This season we find the kids are grown and Jacob, the youngest and last child at home, is about to move out. In the midst of Matt and Amy's evolving relationship and empty nests, there is also celebration and joy blossoming on the farm. Another Roloff family wedding is right around the corner.

Almost a year after Jeremy's storybook wedding, his twin Zach is now preparing to get married. He has a distinct vision for his wedding day which sends Matt into a tailspin of activity to get the farm ready yet again. Throughout the flurry of activity in their lives the Roloffs always manage to tackle any obstacles that they encounter head on as a family.

Before the season premier, TLC will air the special "Jeremy and Audrey's Journey To I Do," on July 7th at 9/8c. Just last year Jeremy, married Audrey in a beautiful ceremony on the family farm. The two-hour special revisits the wedding, while the newly married couple shares stories and never before aired footage that will show fans what it takes to pull off a Roloff wedding.

LITTLE PEOPLE BIG WORLD is produced for TLC by The Studio, formerly Discovery Studios.
